Hahn to Support Freeway

Strong support for early construction of the San Diego freeway came this week as Supervisor Kenneth Hahn urged that the project be given the highest possible priority. Civic leaders and public officials of the southwest and bay areas are planning to attend the August 28 meeting of the State Highway Commission in Sacramento to request that the project be speeded up. Last year, Supervisor Hahn led a delegation of 40 to Sacramento and was successful in getting funds appropriated for completion of the Harbor freeway between 124th and 190th streets. This project is now being advertised for bids to be opened on September 11.

"Now that our primary objective in getting the Harbor freeway construction assured has been achieved, I believe that construction of the San Diego freeway is the most vital project in Los Angeles County and I urge that it be assigned the highest priority," Hahn declared.

Industrialists Support to School Bond Measure

The Torrance Industries Tax Committee, representing the firms which pay a large share of the city's taxes, has endorsed the Torrance Unified School District bond issue which will go before the voters on Oct. 14.

After a study, the group of industrialists unanimously voted to support the bond issue, which will provide more than 300 new classrooms for local students without increasing taxes.

The tax committee, headed by R. H. Parkin of Doak Aircraft Co., Inc., noted that the funds would be spent for one new high school and four new elementary schools, as well as a number of classroom additions at many of the existing 23 elementary and three high schools. Construction of the additional facilities would virtually eliminate double sessions in Torrance.

Passage of the bond issue would not mean a tax increase, but would mean that the district would be able to take advantage of funds legally available for school construction, according to school officials.

Since 1947, the school population has increased by 1093 per cent, while the city's population has increased by only 574 per cent and the assessed valuation has gone up 412 per cent. Some 23,800 pupils are expected in local schools this fall, with an additional 8800 or more seen within five years.

Rev. Cameron to Address Religious Science Group

Assistant minister, Rev. Albert H. Cameron, will speak at the Church of Religious Science Redondo-Torrance branch, Sunday at the 11 a.m. service. His sermon title will be "Do You Really Like Yourself?"

Vacationed for the month are the inspiration hour, the unit class, metatens group and the Wednesday evening lecture, all of which will be resumed in September.
